Danish's Birthday Party

Danish celebrated his birthday yesterday. All the invitation cards had been sent out two weeks ago. Friends and relatives had been invited to the party. Danish felt extremely excited hours before the party started.

His family decorated the living room with colorful banners and balloons. Mom made a lot of sandwiches, hot dogs, fishballs, chicken wings and noodles. Dad bought a birthday cake with the cartoon of character, Sponge Bob, on it.

Soon all the guests arrived with presents. Danish was very happy to receive the presents. They started the party by playing musical chairs and Blindman's Bluff. Winners were given a small token each. Then, it was time to cut the birthday cake.

Everyone clapped and sang the birthday song for Danish. After Danish cut the cake, everyone started to feast on the food Mom had prepared. It was a fun and enjoyable day for everyone. They took a group photograph before the guests left.

A visit to the zoo

Last weekend, my father wanted to take us out somewhere. So we decided to go to the zoo. My mother made some sandwiches and packed some fruits. Father took his camera along, and we all left for the zoo.

Outside, it was warm and sunny. After an hour's drive, we reached the zoo. The place was crowded. There were vendors selling balloons, caps, eatables and lot of other things.

My father bought three tickets and we all walked into the zoo. Inside we boarded a small train which took us around the park. I was so excited that I kept jumping on my seat.

As the train ride, we sat in a restaurant and had our lunch. While walking around the zoo, I saw boards which warned us not to feed the animals. I could not understand the reason behind it. When I asked my father about it, he explained that our food might harm the animals. He also told me that the zoo authorities take care of the animals in best possible manner.

After lunch, we left for our home though I wanted to stay back and go for the train ride again.
